Iran- Strategy Towards Worldwide Military Peace Plan (Space Force Doctrine)

https://rumble.com/v6v99ar 21m Feb. 28, 2026

Hello everyone, I just wanted to do a small update around Iran and how the actions that have occurred there in the last few days may or may not be related to the implementation of the ongoing plan to create a worldwide military peace plan and what has also been seen to be called the Space Force Doctrine. And so I wanted to look at the actions around Iran from that viewpoint to see if we are steadily moving towards implementing that plan worldwide as they've been channeling to me now for a number of years. So I hope you really enjoy the information today and we're just going to get started. So the first thing I wanted to ask was what was the strategy behind Trump's take down of the three nuclear sites in Iran, namely Fordow, Natanz and Isfahan. And was this strategy in any way connected to Israel? So I was just basically wanting to look around that issue. And I said that Trump's strategy was to enforce the worldwide military doctrine protocols onto Iran's leadership. All military regions need to disarm and step down their military arsenal on the ground in order to be in alignment with the Space Force Doctrine or the worldwide military peace plan.

So then I wanted to know, did the Iranian president Masoud Pezeshkian, did he resign? And they said that "He didn't resign, but he did exit the country or was exited from the country by military force and intervention."

And I said, Do you mean the USA military intervention or force? And they said "Not exactly, a White Hat regime has been discreetly assembling in Iran in the military and political arenas and these White Hat factions on the ground in Iran staged an intervention forcing Masoud Pezeshkian to leave Iran with him then stating that he had resigned. He will probably take refuge somewhere like China or India going forward."

The supreme leader of Iran,[a] also referred to as the supreme leader of the Islamic Revolution,[2] [b] but officially called the supreme leadership authority,[c] is the head of state and the highest political and religious authority of Iran (above the president). The armed forces, judiciary, state radio and television, and other key government organizations such as the Guardian Council and Expediency Discernment Council are subject to the supreme leader.[3][4] According to the constitution, the supreme leader delineates the general policies of the Islamic Republic (article 110), supervising the legislature, the judiciary, and the executive branches (article 57).[5] The current lifetime officeholder, Ali Khamenei, has issued decrees and made the final decisions on the economy, the environment, foreign policy, education, national planning, and other aspects of governance in Iran. [d] Khamenei also makes the final decisions

So the Islamic Republic, it has two leaders? They said “Yes.”
And I said, Could you explain to me the difference between the two? So in Iran, we have the Supreme Leader, which is also referred to as the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution, which is officially called the Supreme Leadership Authority. And the Supreme Leader of Iran at this time is called Ali Khamenei. And he has been in this position since June 1989. Now also, we've just heard about the President, Masoud Pezeshkian. And so these seem to be the two leaders or the two main leaders of the Islamic Republic.
And I wanted to know What is the difference between the two?
Now they said that “One of them, the President, Masud Pasekion, he has been seen to be elected by the people and that the second is the head of the military and other operations. So it could be referred to as the Commander in Chief and he oversees any decisions or ratifies any decisions that have been made by the President and he is called Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.”
So my understanding is that in Iran, you have the head of the military and other operations could be, I suppose, called a Commander in Chief, who has been unelected by the people and has been in position since June of 1989. This is the Ayatollah Ali Khamenei. The Ayatollah is able to override or agree to the decisions that are made by the President Masoud Pezeshkian, who has been seen to all intents and purposes, to have been elected by the people. Since the inception of the role of Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei is the second incumbent.

And I wanted to know What does Ayatollah mean? And they said to me that “It means leader Supreme.”
So I wanted to know Is Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, the military head? And they said “He's not just the military head. He also oversees the economy and any political agreements and he is not elected by the people.”
And so I said Who elects the Ayatollah? They said to me that “The Ayatollah is chosen by officials that are already in government at the time of the handover from one Ayatollah to the next, and that the government of Iran is called the Islamic Republic of Iran.”
I then said, Under the worldwide military peace plan, does the role of Ayatollah need to be removed? And they said “Not exactly, it's more that the installation of such a role or leader needs to move more towards decentralised voting and democracy, and that lifetime appointments, which is what they currently have with the Ayatollah, without citizen choice or election, is not part of the future space force doctrine or the worldwide military peace plan set up, so moves towards allowing Iranian citizens to vote from a decentralised system will need to be introduced.”
So I said, So will the role of Ayatollah actually go? They said “In time it is envisioned that a lifetime role of commander in chief or Ayatollah will change or reform and this is because in its current form, the Ayatollah can effectively overcall the people's elected president, which in this case is President Masoud Pezeshkian.
So I said In real terms, the president of Iran wields no real decision-making power. It's more like a front for the people of a political hierarchy. There aren't actually any choices. And they said “Yes.”
And I said, So Iran is effectively a dictatorship under the Ayatollah Ali-Harmineh. And they said “Yes, the Ayatollah is the supreme leader."

And I said, So was Trump's strike to the nuclear bases in Iran, was it related more to the constitutional setup in Iran, or was it more about its military arsenal on the ground, i.e. its nuclear bases? And they said, "Actually it was because of both." And I said, Can you please explain? And they said, "Whilst the reform or the change of the electoral process needs addressing in Iran to move it under the auspices of the Space Force Doctrine, also known as the worldwide military peace plan, it is also necessary to address any stockpile of military arsenal in Iran and this process has been ongoing also in Ukraine and Israel."
And so I said, What is the significance of Israel in regard to Iran? "It cannot be seen that Israel has more military power over Iran, or Iran has more military power over Israel or vice versa and so to stop the repeat friction between the two factions, the USA intervened to disarm Iran's nuclear stockpile, thus reducing and calming relations between Israel and Iran in the longer term. On a military level, they are now both deemed on an equal playing field regarding military arsenal.
So I said, In time, will power return to the crown prince, Muhammad Reza Pahlavi, the crown prince of Iran? And they said, "No, unless the crown prince, Muhammad Reza Pahlavi is elected democratically by the Iranian citizens, then this will not occur. In the future, a female will lead Iran."
But I'm feeling like that's three to five years out. So obviously that's not going to be happening immediately, but it feels like as Iran move more into the democratic role of the worldwide military peace plan doctrine, then it's very likely that in the future, a female could be a lead role in Iran in the political sense going forward.
I said, Did previous USA administrations under Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton, did they send money to Iran to support their nuclear developments? And they said, "No. They sent money mainly to maintain power worldwide with Islamic extremist factions and that actually nuclear arms were only one aspect of this need to join forces with Islamic extremism."

I said, In the future, will Iranians be allowed to travel freely to Israel? I understand that they are currently not permitted to travel there under Iranian law. They said, “Israel will permit Iranians if they hold a visa, but in the future, people will be allowed to travel freely under the auspices of the quantum borders set up. Quantum borders will allow for freedom of movement, regardless of culture, race or politics or status. Countries and regions signed into the worldwide military peace plan will be the only people allowed to move freely within the structure of the quantum borders.”
So just to clarify, I said to them, Will a woman lead Iran in the future? And they said, “Yes.”
And I said, Will it be under the Space Force doctrine and worldwide military peace plan protocols? And they said, “Yes.”
And I said, Is it already known who this white hat leader will be, this female white hat leader? They said, “In psychic terms, it's known, but ultimately, she will be democratically elected via a decentralized direct cell technology.”
And while I was channeling that information, I also had a vision that all the military regions of northeast, south and west, not to be confused with all countries, would all have a female leadership at the same time.
So that was very interesting. So under the worldwide military peace plan, or the Space Force doctrine, I've always been told that the regions are basically divided up into northeast, south and west for military purposes and that in those locations, those military locations, there will be female leadership at the same time. So I think once we start to see female leadership in places, perhaps like Iran and North Korea, for example, we might be able to now say that we've moved into an era of peace.
We might be at the beginning of the era of peace in that moment and my feeling is that that is around three to five years out.
So we obviously still have some work to do in order to move some countries and regions into a more, into a devolved and decentralized voting system. I also think that what's been going on in Iran these last few days is something to do with that vision I had probably about 18 months ago now, maybe longer, where I saw Mohammed bin Salman in the Arctic surrounded by a lot of security and military personnel and at that time, it felt like they were discussing financial strategy. But it could also have been regarding some of the strategy regarding how Iran were going to move under the auspices of the worldwide military peace plan known as the Space Force Doctrine.

I'm also feeling that going forward, we're going to be seeing a new setup in China regarding their voting system so that they can also come under the Space Force Doctrine in the future. And I found this image posted by Derek Johnson, where it shows a hierarchy of the Space Force in terms of what I understand to be the Space Force Doctrine.

And I found it very interesting that there's a hierarchy. And I'm wondering if the countries will all unite as I've been saying for some time. The military regions will all unite to create a unified worldwide military peace plan and that the Space Forces in each location will become a unified unit and that this hierarchy diagram might be informing us of how that might go in the future. So this has just been a short catch up today around what the bigger picture might be around Iran.
Well, it all sounds very promising, longer term. But they might be moving into the Space Force Doctrine in a unified way. And when we see female leaders in perhaps locations where females have not had leadership previously, then we might be well on our way to the Golden Age of Peace and Harmony under the worldwide military peace plan.
Thank you all for listening and I hope to see you all next time. Bye for now.

[FOX NEWS INSERT] The President believes the Iranian people can control their own destiny. And what he said last night makes complete sense if the Iranian regime refuses to come to a peaceful diplomatic solution, which the President is still interested in engaging in, by the way, why shouldn't the Iranian people take away the power of this incredibly violent regime that has been suppressing them for decades? And so our posture has not changed. Our military posture has not changed. These were decisive precision strikes that were successful on Saturday evening, but the President is just simply raising a good question that many people around the world are asking.

Israel & Iran came to me, almost simultaneously, and said, "PEACE!" I knew the time was NOW. The World, and the Middle East, are the real WINNERS! Both Nations will see tremendous LOVE, PEACE, AND PROSPERITY in their futures. They have so much to gain, and yet, so much to lose if they stray from the road of RIGHTEOUSNESS & TRUTH. The future for Israel & Iran is UNLIMITED, & filled with great PROMISE. GOD BLESS YOU BOTH!

[Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, the Supreme Leader of Iran, has been reported as dead as of late February 28 / March 1, 2026. Iranian state media confirmed his death and a period of official mourning was declared, while there is wild dancing in the streets worldwide.]
